

Adoption Information

Choosing to adopt a homeless pet from Capital Humane Society is a very kind act. We appreciate your willingness to offer a lifetime of love to an animal in need.

The adoption fee includes:

- A health exam by the shelter veterinarian
- Spay/Neuter
- Treatment for fleas, ticks, intestinal parasites or mites
- Heartworm test for canines
- Feline Leukemia/FIV test for felines
- Microchip & Microchip registration
- DA2PP & Bordetella vaccinations for canines
- FVRCP vaccination for felines

Keep in mind, the same basic medical care and treatments would cost $200 or more at a local vet.

Pieloch Pet Adoption Center

Meet loving, loyal pets looking for new homes at the Pieloch Pet Adoption Center. Thanks to generous community support, pets for adoption are housed in this beautiful, state-of-the-art facility.

The center is named in honor of Mark Pieloch who donated $1.5 million toward the project. His generosity along with the thoughtful land donation from Mary Jo and Dave Livingston and many other kind donors made it possible for us to open the adoption and education center in July 2013.

Services and Programs

Lost & Found: Capital Humane Society microchips all animals before they are put up for adoption to ensure that if you ever experience the dreadful feeling of losing your beloved pet, we can help you find them. Our staff also works diligently to match lost reports to incoming animal calls.

Humane Education: We provide humane education tours and presentations for groups of all ages. We discuss the role Capital Humane Society plays in the community, teach youth the importance of responsible pet care, and emphasize the value of treating animals & each other with kindness and respect.

Dog Training: We want to provide individuals with the tools they need to train their dogs to be polite pets. The training classes provide knowledge about proper techniques to modify inappropriate behaviors and teach new skills. Classes are available for puppies and adult dogs.
